

Ice Fishing

I don't do a lot of ice fishing but had a great time fishing with friends from college last weekend. We usually try to get together a couple times a year. Our latest rendezvous was for an ice fishing weekend. I didn't know if we would actually venture out onto the ice because these get togethers usually involve more eating, drinking and BS'n than fishing. We decided to go out and drill a few holes Saturday afternoon and stumbled into a good batch of crappies. I didn't catch anything huge but the other guys got some monsters up to 17 inches.
